Center for Criminal Law and Policy

Center Classes

Units from these classes count toward the certificate in Criminal Law and Policy.

Fall 2015 Classes:

Adjudicatory Criminal Procedure	Immigration Removal Defense Seminar
California Evidence	Moot Court Society
Comparative Criminal Procedure Through Film	Trial Practice
Critical Race Theory	Vice Crime

Spring 2016 Classes:

Adjudicatory Criminal Procedure	Introduction to Criminal Trial Practice
Criminal Motion Practice	Law & Psychology
International and Comparative Drug Control

Note: Because the Center and Certificate Program were first established in Fall 2015, there was no official list of qualifying courses prior to the Fall 2015 semester. The Center Directors will determine whether a pre-Fall 2015 course qualifies on a class-by-class basis. If you took a class before Fall 2015 that you believe may qualify, please list the class in your certificate application. When listing pre-Fall 2015 classes, please remember that required courses (e.g., Criminal Procedure, Criminal Law, etc.) do not count toward the units requirement. As a result, you should only list elective courses with a connection to criminal law and policy, including bar tested elective courses, like Adjudicatory Criminal Procedure.
